

CONGRATULATIONS

School Administrators, Principals, Teachers & Parents

To Whom It May Concern:

Myeka believes that when a people are devoid of their history that they have no foundation on which to build. They are like a tree without a root, therefore, we offer this year-a-round curriculum to begin the process of healing and cultural development for African American people. It is our hope that you will find meaning and purpose in this project and add to it by participating. You have nothing to lose and so much to gain.

You can teach African American history in the month of February and year-round with the "I AM Calendar Poster.

We suggest that you assign students to different upcoming days to research an event that occurred on the "I AM Calendar/Poster" The students are to do further research on the event or person they choose. On that day they will present their research during the last 15 - 30 minutes of class with discussion and questions and answers. In this way African American history will become a daily part of your classroom curriculum during the month of February and beyond.

We have prepared a unique fundraiser for your school using the "I AM" Calendar, which we will reveal shortly.

The poster is size 18" x 24" and laminated, and sells for $89.99

Sincerely yours,

Helen L. Edmond Publications

UNITE TO SPREAD AFRICAN AMERICAN HISTORY The I AM Calendar

AN ONTOLOGICAL, THERAPEUTIC, MULTI-CULTURAL, HISTORICAL, LOVE PRESENTATION

A Celebration of Achievement, Excellence, Good Works, Faith, Service, Honor and Wisdom

Anewbeing.com/February

Dateline Chicago, IL. The newly released “February: The I AM, provides a rich and pleasant journey into the history of a new race born on the shores of the Americas. A mixture of the best of every known race.

The I AM Calendar aligns with the thoughts and teachings of Dr. Carter G. Woodson who said, “We should emphasize not Negro history, but the Negro in history.” It teaches cohesiveness, oneness of thought, provides unknown facts and conscious awareness of what happened and is happening, all of which works to create high self-esteem and inspiration to overcome all obstacles.

In 1991 the State of Illinois was mandated by law to teach African American history in all schools in Illinois.(Black History mandate HB2859), however this has yet to be achieved statewide. Also Mississippi, Arkansas, New York, Florida, have mandates. The I AM Calendar makes meeting the objective possible. Imagine young people in school selecting daily events, weeks in advance from the I AM Calendar to research and on that date presenting their research material during the last 10 - 30 minutes of class. Here is a sample research project for September 13th. Alain Locke was born in 1886. He was the first African American Rhodes scholar. Here is a sample of research questions that can be asked: 1) What is a Rhodes scholar? 2) Who is Alan Locke? 3) How did he achieve this status? 4) Who were and are other Rhodes scholars? Where did he grow up? Are there any present day Rhodes scholars? If so who? How can I become a Rhodes scholar? Are there any African American female Rhodes scholars? As a result, every day of school students will learn something uplifting about African American history and world history. We look forward to the adoption of the I AM curriculum in the Illinois state school system and throughout the United States and the world. It is our heritage and it gives proof of the relevancy and greatness of an American people in its infancy as a newly freed race.

The I AM Calendar provides choice in education as students interest are piqued by the different events that happen. With access to all twelve months students can use the vibration of the greatness of their birthday to empower themselves.

The rich history of African American's provides a backdrop for teaching any subject based on those who have achieved success in their chosen fields. Against seemingly insurmountable obstacles of homelessness, poverty, childhood trauma, disease, hunger, a dysfunctional family, incest, sexual abuse, torture, enslavement, violence (hangings, war), racism, prejudice, dis-enfranchisement, the scars of slavery that still linger, violence of every form, physical, mental, spiritual and emotional abuses untold, enslavement and imprisonment, unhealed wounds, environmental catastrophes, father-lessness and mothers still living under a curse of glorified victimization.

The truth is that many African Americans have climbed out of slavery (a real hell) and achieved heavenly heights. They were often battered, bruised, injured, criminalized and ill, but they did it anyway. Ms. Bevel says, “the weakest link can only be strengthened in America when a foundation is laid that is the true history of our sojourn and the many astonishing accomplishments of our ancestors upon whose shoulders we stand. The average African American person has a dysfunctional family history that reads like a soap opera, but that can be replaced with the history that occurred on their birthday, which will give them a vibration to excel.

The I AM Calendar was created and designed by anthologist and author Helen “Myeka” Edmond as a educational and fundraising tool for her nonviolent initiative the Peace Fellowship. It is her way of giving people worldwide a way to know the many achievements and accomplishments of her people. She says, “TV, radio, movies and most media portrays African Americans as criminals, animalistic, no-gooders and fools.” The writer of Animal Farm, George Orwell says, “The most effective way to destroy people is to deny and obliterate their own understanding of their history.” Malcolm X says, “History is a people's memory, and without a memory, man is demoted to the lower animal.” If Orwell and Malcolm are correct then we must give the people their history.

Ms. Bevel says, “I remember an interview I heard with a Caribbean chemist who was asked a question about Dr. George W. Carver, she exclaimed that she knew nothing about him.” Well the I AM Calendar brings these facts to the world and inspires further research leading to the development of many skills like reading, research, learning enhancement. comprehension, presentation and communication skill development.

The calendar also provides the date of independence for African and Caribbean countries , giving people a glimpse into world history and world leaders like former South African President Nelson Mandela, Bob Marley and chess Grandmaster Amon Simutowe from sub-Saharan Africa.

The I AM Calendar poster is size 24” x 36”. It can be custom designed to meet any presentation need. It comes in full color and is choked full of events, birthdays, firsts, quotes, Adinkra symbols and pictures.

Now governments, corporations and businesses worldwide can adopt the I AM and become a part of African American history and help spread it worldwide so the truth can be known about the great achievements of African American people. Now African American children can use the giant footsteps of their ancestors as a spring board to the highest heights.

The month of February has been designed as a time to become principled. Each day governs a principle like February 1 is Love, the 2nd is Joy. On each day people will be asked to embody the principle in their life by writing poems, essays or songs about it. Also expressing the principle in one’s life. All of which will call forth creativity.

“Every Americans agenda should include the healing and strengthening of African American people. The I AM Calendar is just a beginning that everyone can take part in. Once this step is taken the next steps will become obvious.”

–Helen Edmond

HISTORY

Genesis - the beginning

The foundation.

Where we evolved from.

Our ancestors.

Those who share a common experience.

Our root system.

What we can build upon.

LEGACY

A pyramid in a desert landscape at sunset, with palm trees in the foreground and a person walking in the distance.

That which is preserved.

That which has value.

That which is taught.

That which is learned.

The way.

That which nurtures.

That which sustains.

The formula for sustaining a healthy system.

OVERCOMING CULTURAL GENOCIDE

What can be learned or studied with the I AM Calendar?

Empowered Thinking - Principles lead the way to empowered thinking and principles are sprinkled throughout the calendar in the many inspiring quotes. The month of February is dedicated to “Principled Living.” Each day represents a principle to be studied and understood, like {Love, Truth, Joy, Peace, etc.}

Cultural Development - As the people of West Africa were captured, stolen and enslaved in the Americas they lost their culture. The I AM Calendar begins the process of creating a culture born in the Americas by presenting the great achievements of men and women who dared to excel and climb out of the hell they were born into.

History - The history of African American people is celebrated every February, however it is so expansive that we have made it relevant every day of the year with the I AM Calendar.

Civics - One of the greatest achievements of the 20th century was the right-to-vote. It didn't start in Selma, AL but in the abolitionist movement and the signing of the Emancipation Proclamation by President Abraham Lincoln. It even went so far as to create the first African American president, President Barack H. Obama. The 365 Calendar celebrates these achievements.

Career Choices - Each day people are presented who have been successful in their variant careers.

Positive Role Models - The personae that have aspired to greatness are not all saints but they provide a positive role model in some area of their life.

Reading - As students study the events that take place in their history they will be motivated to do further research and learn to read and comprehend the depth of lives and events. Young people will enjoy reading about their greatness.

Researching - In order to get the most out of the calendar further research must be done. The calendar provides only a snippet of an event or persons achievements, but it is just enough to generate curiosity in the minds of people.

Character Development - The many inspiring quotes direct people to want to develop a sterling character.

Categories

Following are forty-four categories that people and events fall into on “The I AM Calendar.” Use these categories as part of a curriculum that will allow students to sort and learn from. Students can be assigned to research and work on different categories. Students can prepare exhibits about the contents of the various categories as part of a African American History Fair (classroom or school).

CURRICULUM GUIDE

We seek to frame the history of African American people in the most glorious light in order to give hope, incentive, choice, inspiration, good tidings, insight, knowledge and more to generations of youth and adults.

African American history is rich with content, providing a climate for studying any subject.

For example:

- Research into the life of Dr. George Washington Carver can create a curriculum that provides people with the knowledge of how to reduplicate his experiments to create three hundred products from the peanut and thus advance the study of many branches of math and science. Seeking to know how he did what he did not just that he did it.
- Research into the life of Paul Revere Williams can create a curriculum into the study of all the subjects that an architect has to learn like math, physics, art, etc.

Reading, research, writing, math, art, music, sports, thinking, theology, government, therapy, medicine, farming and practically any subject can be studied through the lenses of African American history. By creating such a curriculum students will find interest, attention, excitement, enthusiasm, purpose and principles for living life abundantly and with meaning.

We suggest that for February African American History Month, that teachers assign a student to do research on an event on each day of February and present their research during the last 5 - 15 minutes of class. In addition you can create a African American History Fair in your classroom or school and have students create displays and win prizes. Also each day of February is dedicated to a principle. Encourage students to journal, draw pictures, write prose/poetry, write lyrics, plays, art, food, clothes, signs, etc. about the principle.

Trivia games, contests, puzzles, computer games and game boards can be created from the material presented.

The month of February has been broken down into categories that you can use to reinforce learning.

We encourage you to share your ideas with us so that we can share them with others, so please send pictures, audios, videos, comments, questions and information to us as we share our wisdom.

Thank you,
